

Bugs that I Found...

- In app.py the method is of only post type so that we can't access the webpage, so to remove this bug I added get as well as post to the methods such that the webpage can be accessed and the details from form can also be collected.
- In home.html the method and action is not specified such that the details collected from form can't be displayed and accessed so I connected the form with method using `url_for('index')` and specified the method as post so that the details can be collected from the form
- I also added if else statements in app.py so that it executes based on the get and post methods such that .none won't be showed up and also added the title of the webpage as note taking app.
